

Welcome to the U.S. Army CECOM Research, Development and Engineering Center, Night Vision and Electronic Sensors Directorate (NVESD). NVESD has facilities located at Fort Belvoir, Fort A.P. Hill, and Davison Army Airfield, in Virginia.

NVESD is dedicated to providing the Army support in night vision and electronic sensors and sensor suites to aid in acquisition, engagement and defeat of enemy forces day or night, and under all battlefield and weather conditions. NVESD's primary research efforts are in the areas of low energy lasers, thermal imaging, image and signal processing, sensor fusion, image intensification, demining, mine detection/neutralization, physical security equipment, and camouflage, concealment and deception.

The staff at NVESD hopes that your visit will be productive and pleasant. The information contained in this booklet is provided to make your travel within the area easier. Should you require any additional information, please contact either the Security or Program Information Office at the telephone numbers listed on the back cover.

US Citizens

Before entering the NVESD's Gellini Gate, you will be required to show a picture identification card and receive a Visitor's Badge. US Citizens will be escorted at all times while visiting NVESD.

US Citizens attending a classified meeting or conference must forward their clearance information via a Visitor Clearance Request. FAX to (703) 704-1098 or DSN 654-1098 or mail to:
